

911 Really?: Tales of Lincoln County 911

Rick Lamon has spent most of his adult life in the service of others, to call him an asset to the Lincoln County community would be an understatement. Drawing from more than thirty years of experience in the emergency management field, Lamon compiled some of his favorite memories for his book of short stories. Like some of the calls at the dispatch, the reader never knows what to expect with each turn of the page. Rick's favorite story is called, Possum Police about the night the on-duty police officers were bored and decided to catch a live opossum and throw it into an open window, landing in Rick's lap. Rick Lamon opens a window into the lighter moments of law enforcement.
