Walt Disney World is the happiest place on earth. I want planning a trip to Walt Disney World to be as fun and happy as the place itself. The new 2013 edition of Dads & Moms Disney Dos & Donts is my Walt Disney World vacation planning guide written by a Dad, approved by Mom, and completely unnoticed by our kids. Planning a trip to Walt Disney World for the family involves about a million decisions. Thirty choices of hotels, plus eight different ticket options, plus five dining plans, plus 152 restaurants add up to hundreds of questions for many folks. We have tried to assemble all of the key information that youll need before you commit to your Walt Disney World reservation. Even after you have made your reservations, you still have hundreds of decisions to make on how to spend your days, which of the four parks to visit when, where to eat, what attractions to ride, which shows to see, etc. We hope this guide will provide tools to help you approach these decisions with confidence, a little humor and a lot of fun for the entire family. In addition to our suggestions for Dos and Donts, weve developed a few vacation planning events with activities even the smallest Disney lovers can do.
