

Lifelines

Lifelines describes those connections we have with each other which keep us alive, healthy, and in touch with ourselves and our environment. They are emotional, physical, and spiritual, and surround and encompass each of us. Lifelines emphasizes that personal success and fulfillment involves developing loving interrelationships. Diary entries describe my feelings and emotions during the darkest hours, and chapters by my wife and two daughters chronicle their thoughts and emotions. The unique problems of caregivers, the role of physicians, and the responsibilities of the patient are important aspects of this book. The experiences described in Lifelines have changed our lives forever and a new understanding and faith has been the outcome. All I understand of life now lead me to one inescapable conclusion; I do not live alone. I am supported by lifelines from many sources that uphold, nourish, and guide me through this life.
