

The Osiris Connection: World Wide Jihad

A novel of the genre related to the TV series 24 and the book Da Vinci Code by Dan Brown. It is an international thriller that takes place primarily during the latter portion of Saddam Husseins reign of terror.

The novel begins with the stoning of a seventeen year old girl, suffering her punishment for delivering identical twin sons out of wedlock. The twins were separated never knowing that their twin brother existed. One of the twins, Mahmoud, was raised in London by a wealthy Muslim family. The other, Matafi, grew up in the streets of Cairo who as an adult joined an international terrorist organization. The terrorist group was founded and directed by an unseen-unknown phantom like entity named Osiris. As the mawalana (master) Osiriss goal was to forcefully convert mankind to his radical version of Islam. For eight years he had assembled and trained an army of dedicated Islamists. A rapidly growing group that were widely dispersed in small cells that spanned half of the world. Muslim scientists and engineers developed a unique messaging system named Kafara (to hide). This technology was beyond the detection capabilities of the counter terrorist agencies. This newly devised technology allowed the Osiris operational groups to openly communicate without fear of their coded messages being analyzed. Knowing their transmittals would be intercepted they included a detectable section that threatened the west with destruction and death unless they converted to Islam. This short insert always related to ancient Egyptian Gods whose purpose was war related and/or mass annihilation. An Iraqi army lieutenant, Rizgar al-Bashar, witnessed genocidal atrocities committed under Saddam Husseins tyrannical regime. Disheartened and disillusioned he defected by entering the Royal Military Academy, at Sandhurst England. At the RMA he befriended training instructor Colonel Bryan Archibald. The colonel convinced Rizgar to join MI6 as a double agent to fight the terrorists and subtly extract military information from his father an Iraqi general. Many western countries combined their counter terrorist agencies to combat the widely disseminated and independent cells. These were cells that had few members and meager facilities that were quite often located in a Mosque. The cells communicated via the Kafara messaging device. WMD materials hijacked from USSR storage facilities were employed by the Osiris forces. They also combined forces with the Chechen resistance movement to commandeer some of the WMD resources. The WMD materials were to be simultaneously utilized to inflict destruction and carnage on key population centers in non-Muslim countries. The terrorists intent was to unleash a multiple series of attacks that would hasten the demise of the western world and bring to fruition an all encompassing Islamic state. The resultant violence leads to a spellbinding ending that culminates with a dramatic sequence of unexpected events.
