

Mostly True: A Surgeons Reflections on Life, Health, Medicine, and Power Tools

Have you ever wondered what golf clubs have to do with a devastating medical condition? Would you like to know the important role chainsaws play in surgical education? Did you know that pizza can be lifesaving? Dr. Alan Muskett has had careers in both cardiothoracic and now plastic and reconstructive surgery. He has been writing features on medical topics for years, exploring everything from the business of medicine to the intensely personal relationship between physical and spiritual health. Across the broad range of topics, these insider views are presented with an edgy humor as well as a poignancy that will both entertain and touch the reader.
